Implicatures in Discourse

Nicholas Asher

In this talk I will look at two classes of implicatures---those that are computed when one is constructing a discourse structure for a piece of text and the so called scalar implicatures. I will show how to reconstruct scalar implicatures within the Glue Logic of SDRT and then argue for a general discourse based theory of implicature.